PREFACE

The aim of this little Volume is to record, so far as possible, a brief History of the Watt Family in America. We believe that the Watts of the future are entitled to share in the glorious traditions of their forebears—for it is their heritage as well as ours -

Our Ancestor Margaret Davidson Watt and her eight children brought from across the water certain ideals and standards, which played their parts in the shaping of our Nation, not only in the civic and political, but the religious life as well, for they were of a God fearing race.

We have endeavored to trace each branch from its beginning in America to the present generation but, no doubt, you will find some errors and omissions. Should it be your family, please forgive us, make the correction on the Blank Page, in your section, which is placed there for future records.

It would have been impossible for us to accomplish even this much without the cooperation of many of the friends--to all of these we wish to express our appreciation and to say, Thank You.

O.G.

PROLOGUE

Between the years 1606 and 1625, thirty to forty thousand persons who were stripped of their rights came over to Northern Ireland and settled in Counties Down, Antrim and Donegal. Here they built for themselves homes and churches.

It was in 1611 that David, son of David MaDavid or McDougal came over into Ireland and settled in County Down near Tyrone, Ireland. He took the name of Davids-son or Davidson (as was usual in these days), and thus a new family was founded, who later became the ancestors of many of the Pioneers in America. (Irish Pedigree Vol. 2)

The WATT or WATTS (sometimes spelled Wats) family came into Ireland with the Cromwellian Settlement about the year 1642 at the time of the Revolution, and are direct descendents of the First Earl of Ulster.

The Scotch-Irish are not, nor have they ever been of Irish Blood--using the word in its racial sense--but are purely Scottish. Their emigrant ancestors in this country were people of unmixed Scottish descent who came to America from the Scottish communities of the North of Ireland, and all the glorious history and ancestral tradition of their Scottish forefathers belongs to their descendents in the United States today.

The ancestors of nearly all the people of the Ohio River Valley came from these settlements in the North of Ireland.

JOSEPH WATT, born in 1798 and died in 1884, was the third son of Joseph and Margaret Davidson Watt. Joseph and JENNIE WATT, fifth child, having never married, lived together. The story is told of Uncle Joe, "Old Uncle Joe", as he was called, having a cow, which he thought was a wonderful milker and took delight in telling every ine who happened to come into the home about his cow and how many gallons of milk she gave. But Aunt Jennie would always say, "Tut, tut, Joe, you know the half was just froth." Another story of Uncle Joe, having no wife or children, he lavished his love upon a large and lazy old dog. He would lay down the rails of a fence for Major to get from one field to another. Being out with Major one day, a neighbor happened along, and they sat down to swap some yarns. Joe had taken the precaution to tie Major to a rail, but something got Major excited for once, and he started to run dragging the rail. Whereupon Uncle Joe, in great excitement, yelled, "There goes Major to hell with a fence rail."

JENNIE remained at home until after the death of her brother Charles' wife, when she went to keep house for him.

When the children were still quite small, the family decided to join Joseph Gilkison, a brother, who has earlier moved his family to Ellsworth, Kansas. The story of their journey westward and early struggles in a new state is given from extracts of a letter written by a daughter, Mrs. O. C. French:

"We left Ohio about April 1, 1878, father, mother, and we four girls came on what was known as the emigrant train and arrived in Ellsworth, Kansas, April 3. We came directly to Uncle Joe Gilkison's and stayed there until father found a house. It was low with sod or dirt roof, located near the Smoky Hill River. Just about this time we children had Diphtheria.The river was at flood stage and father swam it and walked to Ellsworth, a distance of 14 miles, for medicine. After this we lived in a small frame house with a shingle roof until father built a house on the 160 acre farm he homesteaded 17 miles southeast of Ellsworth in Empire Township. We moved in, in July. The blue stem grass was from 4 to 5 feet tall and prairie fires were very common; the blaze leaping and roaring could be seen and heard for miles. On seeing smoke, men would stop work and go for miles to aid some settler save his home. Our first schoolhouse was built of logs with a dirt roof; with benches running around the walls. Fuel was scarce. The settlers who were fortunate enough to settle along the creeks were able to sell wood for very high prices. In 1884 the towns of Kanapolis and Geneseo were laid out, both about 10 miles distant.

Our folks always purchased the necessities that were needed for winter in the fall as blizzards were frequent and we would be weeks without receiving mail. The winter of 1885-86 was known as the year of the Big Blizzard. Whole herds of cattle were buried under snow drifts. In 1887 and 1888 there was no rainfall and crops were a complete failure. Eggs sold as low as 5¢ a dozen, and butter 6¢ a pound. Many settlers became desperate and left the state; others mortgaged their homes to live. Father and mother lived on the old homestead until 1902 when they went to live with Carrie, wife of D. D. Hudson. In 1904 the home place passed into the hands of strangers." (Signed) Nina Gilkison French.

Mr. Absolom Gilkison died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. D. D. Hudson, September 15, 1909, at the age of 82 years, 11 months, and 13 days. Mrs. Gilkison died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Emma Reaume, September 1, 1923, at the age of 92 years, 3 months and five days. James, the oldest child, died January, 1922 survived by his wife and one son Charles. Mrs. Nina French died April 28, 1934.

James C. Watt

James C. Watt, 88, died Saturday afternoon at Delaware County Nursing Home, where he had been a patient since 1957.

Mr. Watt was a retired carpenter and a member of the Eaton Saddle Club.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Helyn Good, Fort Wayne, two granddaughters, one grandson, and [redacted] great-granddaughters.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Monday in Pitman-Richman Funeral Home, Eaton, with Rev. John Vickery of First Christian Church of Eaton officiating. Burial will be in Union Cemetery, Eaton.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 6 to 9 p.m. Sunday.

MRS. MARTHA A. SMITH NEE CASH

Marth A. Smith Nee Cash, born May 10, 1829. Departed this life Dec. 25, 1911 age 82 years, 7 months, 15 days.

Born in Columbia county, Ohio and at the age of six years her home was broken up by the death of her mother when she was received into the home of her grandparents at School Craft, Michigan, residing with them until 17 years of age, coming toWells County Ind where her father having moved from her birth place in Ohio remaining with her father until Dec. 23, 1847 when she was united in marriage to Joseph Braner.

Having entered a piece of land in Jay County, built a house on the land entered from the Government prior to their marriage where they begun keeping house and changing the forrest into farm land, braving all the hardships of pioneer days.

To thls union was born five children one son and four daughters.

When on Nov. 22, 1866 Father was called bv death to a higher life, leaving Mother and children to brave the hardships alone. By hard work and careful living the forest was cleared away and the land entered by the father has made a home for all the children.

Again the family ties are broken January 20, 1878 when Lydie the eldest daughter passing to a higher life leaving Harriet, Alice, Nathan and Olive to mourn a mothers love and timely council with 12 grand children and four great grand children, three sisters Phoebie Willson of Union County Penn. Francis Fisher, Keystone, Ind., Angelie Groves of Poneto, Ind., and a host of other friends and relatives to miss her smiling face.

She was again united in marriage to John Cash September 28, 1897 living happily together till death separated them Nov. 4th 1901.

Feeling the lonliness on the farm she moved to Fiatt eight years ago where she departed this life.

Having always lived a quite religious life taking her bible for guidance, using kind words and helping hands to those in distress, sick and in need of help.

Mother your loving counsel we'll never forget,
As onward through lifes journey we roam:
And when the cares of life shall have ended
We'll meet you safely in heaven at home.
And now mother farewell, Tis the saddest word
That has ever fallen our lot to express;
Though our hearts are almost breaking
As we bid our last farewell.
We calmy give her up to Jesus,
He who doeth all things well,
Good bye, Mother dear good bye,
God has called you to His own;
And through our tears we meekly say,
O God thy will be done;
Fold her father to thy breast
And let her memory be
A guiding star to lead our souls
To heaven and to Thee.
